The Proposal: Jenny and James have known each other their entire lives. They started dating when they were both in college at the University of Alabama, and dated long-distance while James went to medical school in Auburn and Jenny attended law school in Charlottesville, VA. Both love the outdoors, so a proposal on the beach at Portsmouth Island in the Outer Banks was just perfect. They were walking along the beach looking for shells, where James had put his grandmother's ring in a certain shell. When he bent down to pick it up, Jenny turned around and he was on one knee asking her to marry him.
